The numbering of claims is not in accordance with 37 CFR 1.126. When new claims are presented, they must be numbered consecutively beginning with the number next following the highest numbered claim previously presented.

Misnumbered claim 16 has been renumbered as claim 15.

Claims 7, 11, and 12 are objected to for containing an error in syntax. In claim 7, line 6, "which" should be changed to --whether--.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1,2,8,10,14, and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Brienza. The patent to Brienza discloses a sewing apparatus comprising a sewing mechanism 11, Fig. 1 in which a thread is used, a cassette mount 32, Fig. 3 to which a thread cassette 34 holding the thread used in the sewing mechanism is detachably attached, a determining unit 81, 82, 83, etc. determining a type of the thread cassette attached to the cassette mount, and a control device 43 controlling the sewing mechanism according to the type of the thread cassette determined by the determining unit. Brienza further discloses an adjuster 41, 42, Fig. 1 adjusting thread tension of the thread supplied from the thread cassette attached to the cassette mount, wherein the control device controls the adjuster according to the type of the thread cassette determined by the determining unit. With regard to the cassette 34 note that a "cassette" is defined as a container that is used in a machine that holds something which is awkward to handle, and that can be easily loaded or unloaded. A thread spool acts as a container that is used in a sewing machine that holds a thread which is awkward to handle, the thread spool being easily loaded or unloaded on or from a mounting portion 32.

Claims 1,3,4,14, and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Meier. The patent to Meier discloses a sewing apparatus comprising a sewing mechanism 50, Fig. 1 in which a thread (viz. the continuous strand of tape within cassette 12) is used, a cassette mount 13, 14, etc. to which the thread cassette 12 holding the thread used in the sewing mechanism is detachably attached, a determining unit 62 determining a type of the thread cassette attached to the cassette mount, and a control device 9, Figs. 1,4 controlling the sewing mechanism (by either guiding the machine operator on how to use the machine or by introducing pattern data into the machine memory for influencing the magnitude of needle bight and material feed) according to the type of the thread cassette determined by the determining unit.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brienza et al in view of Johnson et al. To construct the sewing apparatus of Brienza et al with a control device that disallows the sewing machine to start when the cassette having been attached to the cassette mount is undetected as suggested by Johnson et al (see claim 21 of Johnson et al) would have been obvious since the controlled device would be prevented from being operated without the essential cassette element.

Claims 5-7 and 11-13 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
